Hi Rita Yes I do, for reasons stated before as well as there has been several changes to the building such as cedar shake siding and an awning built on the front, all door frames have been closed in with glass block or wood frame to accommodate smaller doors, all windows changed to updated vinyl windows and aluminum frames with no regard for past design.

The business of harness making is still vibrant in Canada with more than 10 in the province and many more throughout the country therefore its not a trade that is of a bygone era. This style of building is common throughout the country and does not stand out as anything unique comparing to other buildings of the era.

Thank you J [REDACTED]

Hello J [REDACTED]

I am finalizing the report to council on the designations. Can you please confirm if you still object to the designation?

Thank you.

Rita
